

What I cannot say on social media platforms including Gab.com.

This related to violence in the form of, "Good men sometimes need to do bad things to protect the innocent". And there is two parts to this. And I'll keep both very brief to the barest form.

ONE:

There is getting the legal piece of all this put into order. And no, not some manifesto posted online like some nut job hired by the FBI or CIA to shoot up a school. But a real legal brief put to writing that, in law, justifies the action(s) of violence. One that fits under the use of militia. So research is needed. I would say strongly required.

TWO:

The violence itself. The ranting line of reason.

There will be no end to the pedophile agenda, assisted by people in the government corporation, without a persistent violent threat to counter. Up to and including death for those that harm children. That use authority to kidnap, rape, and to murder children for profit & pleasure. Or violence directed at privet individuals or privet groups.

It should be strongly noted that those in authority that protect pedophiles are the ones that should also be the lease to be spared the punishment of," Good men sometimes need to do bad things to protect the innocent".

I am normally an advocate of the mass use of the pen by a massive number of people over a short period of time. Concentrated at one location. But due the only massive of anything being used is weakness to apply ink to paper. People have to die. These pedophiles and their supporters must die. In a rinse and repeat format. It is the only message now worth sending.
